TO THE EDITOR OF "THE LACOMBE GLOBE"

Dear Sir: Permit me through your paper to express my surprise that a community such as we have would allow a Regatta to be held at Gull Lake on Sunday. The observance of this day of rest has been at the foundation of our advanced civilization. How Christian people should patronize such a flagrant defiance of the sacredness of that day passes my understanding.

C. C. McLaurin.

Lacombe, Aug. 26, 1929

To the Editor: Dear Sir, allow me to express my sorrow at the depravity of the citizens of Central Alberta in allowing tennis games to be played at Gull Lake on Sunday. I actually, with my own eyes saw a lot of young people playing on the Gull Lake court on Sunday last, while I with my family were enjoying a well earned holiday touring through your lovely country in our car. I do trust that these worthy sports will be stopped.

Yours truly,

A Tourist

To the Editor:

Dear Sir: While taking a Sunday drive through your beautiful district, after an enjoyable round of golf on your splendid course, we visited Gull Lake, and you cannot imagine what a shock it was to me to see stores and ice cream parlors, as well as gasoline tanks, open and doing business just as if it was a week day. Can nothing be done to stop this unholy work?

A Reader.

THANKS AQUATIC CLUB

To the Editor: Dear Sir:—On behalf of myself and family and hundreds of residents of the district, I wish to publicly express my appreciation of the work of the Gull Lake Aquatic Club in providing a pleasing program for visitors to the Lake on Sunday last. I trust that in future these and other events will be arranged as there is no more beautiful place to spend a Sunday afternoon than at Gull Lake. In the past, there has been no inclination on the part of the residents to provide entertainment of any kind for Sunday, and in consequence we have been compelled to go to Sylvan and other lakes to spend our weekly holiday. Sunday is the one day in the week when the majority of us can get away from our labors on the farm, and we certainly enjoy the quiet and refreshing water sports. I also wish to express my satisfaction on the action of the government in providing a public park at the lake for our convenience.

Trusting that there will be many pleasant events such as provided on Sunday last, I am, yours truly,

PROMINENT INSURANCE MAN DIES AT REGINA

(Regina Post)

Following an illness of only a few days duration, Theodore F. Conrad, for the past 15 years manager of the Saskatchewan Life Insurance Co., with headquarters here, died in the Grey Nun's Hospital at 3 o'clock this morning. Deceased was the result of a ruptured appendix.

The late Mr. Conrad was 64 years of age. Prior to coming to Regina in 1914, he had been for seven years in Winnipeg, as supervisor of the Sun Life Assurance Company from 1907 to 1909 and as superintendent of agencies for the Great West Life Assurance Company from 1909 to 1914.

He is survived by his widow, three sons and one daughter. The sons are Reginald C. of Calgary; Stuart F. of Winnipeg; and Gerald F. of Regina; and the daughter is Mrs. E. W. Meuser, of Regina. All the members of the family are at present in Regina with the exception of Reginald Conrad, who is expected to arrive here from Calgary this evening. Besides his widow and children, Mr. Conrad leaves to mourn his loss three sisters. They are Mrs. Duncan Chisholm, of Lacombe, Alberta, who will be here for the funeral; Mrs. Robert McMan, Halifax; and Mrs. Thomas Hall, Sheet Harbor, Nova Scotia.

Funeral arrangements are being made by J. A. Wright and the funeral services will be held in St. Paul's Anglican Church at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The late Mr. Conrad was born in Halifax, N.S., May 13, 1865, and received his education in the schools there. He began his career as a master mariner in the Maritime Provinces. In 1887 he turned to commercial life and from then until 1907 was a commercial traveller in the Maritime Provinces.

In 1907 Mr. Conrad went into the business in which he was to continue for the remainder of his life, that of life insurance. For the next six years he was agency director of the New York Life Insurance Co. in the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland. The following year he came West and since then had made his home on the prairies.

The late Mr. Conrad was a member of the Assiniboia Club. He was fond of golf and was a member of both the Wascana Country Club and the Regina Golf Club. During the years he resided in the city he had made a large circle of friends and his death this morning came as a great shock to them.

Regina Daily Post says:—In the insurance and financial life of Regina and Saskatchewan, expanding and taking on new importance each week, T. F. Conrad, manager of the Saskatchewan Life Insurance Company, who died on Saturday, played a creditable part. Mr. Conrad had been manager of the Saskatchewan Life for 15 years, had figured conspicuously in its development, and had played an important part in the general financial life of the province. He had had a wide experience in the insurance business, being associated with other companies, at Winnipeg and elsewhere, before coming to Regina, and as a commercial traveller in his younger days in the Maritime Provinces, he had helped in building up of the commercial and industrial life of the Dominion. A native son of Nova Scotia, Mr. Conrad was one of many Maritimers who have left their imprint upon Canadian development.

Not only in the financial life of this city and province will Mr. Conrad be missed. In private life he had many friends, drawn to him by the element of good comradeship which he radiated.

U. S. Tariff and Canada

What the legislature of the United States see fit to do with their tariff is, in the long run, principally their own business, at least to the extent that they have every right to do what they consider in the best interests of their own citizens. As is well known they are at this moment projecting a new tariff law which must inevitably curtail Canadian exports into the republic. That again is their business and, however much we may regret the idea, we cannot deny that if they believe they have chosen the wise course for their own good, they are doing the perfectly proper thing in following it.

But let us face the facts. If the new tariff which these legislators evolve militate against our own export trade, is it not also Canada's business that she use defensive measures in accordance with the very natural law of self-preservation? Canadians have been, perhaps, a little unnecessarily resentful of the United States policy to deal with their own tariffs according to their own needs and a great many harsh words have been uttered since American tariff proposals became known. There have been demands for retaliation. There have been, on the other hand, words of warning (by the Prime Minister, himself, for example) against the dangers of incurring enmity with the United States by retaliatory action. As usual there are extremes in both camps. But the plain fact appears to be that it is not a question of reprisal if, when the United States, in effect, serves notice upon us that they no longer desire to do business with us in the markets which have been open to us heretofore, we turn to the task of cultivating other markets. And there can be no danger of incurring enmity with our great neighbor, if, having thus been notified, we take them at their word. They cannot even, unless they are a less reasonable people than we had supposed, be resentful if we raise our tariff barriers against them in proportion as they raise theirs against us.

On the part of the United States men to Canadians? It is not denied that it is a matter of vital concern. The United States are fortunate in having been able to accumulate large profits from the billigweent nations in both years prior to their own entry into the Great War. They are still collecting the profits in the form of debt settlement and the repayment of principal and interest of loans. That, let us concede, is their good fortune. But the nations which were handicapped by the war are left witnessing the United States amassing tremendous capital, organizing mass production methods further strengthened by the growth of trusts, combines, mergers and so forth on an unprecedented scale. And although Canadian forests and mines are being stripped to supply the United States manufacturers with their raw materials; and although Canadians are importing the finished article back into their own country (and paying duty for the privilege of doing so), the United States have modified us that our manufactured goods are not wanted. Then when we turn to the products of the field in which we, in Western Canada, have more intimate concern we find that the farmer is in danger of being a fellow-victim of the United States tariff with the Eastern farmer and the manufacturer. The danger in which the Canadian farmer who has relied on the United States market stands at the present moment is just as critical as that of the exporting manufacturer. Wheat and flour duties are practically prohibitive. Duties on almost all other grains and cereals, while some are unchanged, are increased to some more or less substantial extent. In the tariff amendments respecting livestock and livestock products a duty of six cents per pound on beef, just double the existing duty, is taken as the basis but there has been a determined effort on the part of the farm groups to get the duty on cattle raised. Any change in the conditions affecting Canada's cattle industry must be taken seriously. The tariff project falls also upon poultry, eggs and dairy products generally; upon lumber from the Western forests. It will be seen then that the tariff proposals are not of sectional interest. They will be a blow to industry and agriculture alike and will render the conditions under which Canada conducts her export trade still more formidable. The most obvious results will be to reduce the output of Canadian factories, the employment of fewer Canadian men and women, and conversely, the creation of more unemployment, and, as a consequence, to increase the exodus of Canadians from their own country, particularly the skilled labor and the trained technicians who have been educated in their crafts and professions in institutions at the expense of the Canadian public.

Let us not be squeamish about hurting the United States' feelings. There is no need for bitterness or rancour. It is a plain matter of business.

IMMIGRANTS FROM BRITAIN

Not very long after his arrival in Canada, Mr. Thomas, Minister of Employment, appears to have been persuaded to talk of many things; of reparations and disarmament, of unemployment and Empire trade development. But there is more than a suspicion in Canadian minds that one of the principal purposes of his visit is to discuss plans for increasing British migration into this country.

He has made it very plain at the outset that it is not the desire of the British Government to "dump" the surplus population into Canada or any other country. And therein Mr. Thomas speaks what he conscientiously believes. Admittedly, of course, Great Britain's concern in securing a freer movement of migrants is not primarily in the interest of Dominion development, but in order to reduce unemployment at home and the theory of the thing is simply this: that if several thousands of men and women and children be moved from a place where there is no employment for them to another place where there is, everyone concerned will benefit. But Mr. Thomas no doubt also realizes that Canada cannot absorb more than a certain number of settlers yearly. He probably has no misconceptions as to the country's ability to take in large numbers of industrial workers in the hope of putting them to work at their accustomed jobs; nor, probably, is he unaware of the difficulties attendant on attempting to make farmers of coal miners who may or may not be adapted to farming or who, as likely as not, have no inclination for agriculture.

Mr. Thomas has had ample opportunity for observing that British immigrants are preferred in this country but he did not have to come to this country to be brought to a realization of the truth that the stream of British overseas migration is, temporarily at least stemmed. Willingly or unwillingly he has, no doubt, also come to the conclusion that his country's social legislation has contributed to this condition and still tends to perpetuate it.

If Mr. Thomas' visit to this country is for the purpose of discussing plans for new settlement schemes, it is to be feared that he has set himself a long, hard row to hoe. It is only a few days since our Minister of Immigration, Mr. Forke, made it known that immigration to Western Canada will not be encouraged at the present time and Mr. Forke was not announcing a policy which was not firmly imbedded in sound economic reasons. If Mr. Thomas can shake or alter the Minister of Immigration's confidence in the wisdom of a policy based on personal experience he will have to be persuasive indeed.

Fine Holsteins For Lacombe

Fourteen head of exceptionally well bred Holsteins transferred a few days ago from one Alberta breeder to another in the same province, constitutes one of the largest and most important sales of registered Holstein cattle recorded in one deal this has taken place in Western Canada for several months. The parties taking part in the negotiations were John Russell of Alton and John Graydon of Lacombe, both prominent breeders, the latter making the purchase from the former. In the lot disposed of by Mr. Russell, were two young bulls and twelve cows, the group, an exceedingly well bred lot, being the get of Hillcrest Sir Sadie Ormsby and Colony Feforit Boy Poach, both bulls of good R.O.P. breeding. The former, Hillcrest Sir Sadie Ormsby was got by Hillcrest Ormsby by DeKol with 19 tested daughters and 11 proven sons, his by Sir Admiral Ormsby with 19 tested daughters and 16 proven sons. His dam, Hillcrest Sadie May, also carried some nice breeding as she was sired by May Echo Champion, while in the 305 day division of the R.O.P. she produced 22,376 lbs. milk and 856.23 lbs. butter, and in the R.O.M. at 2 years of age she made a seven day record of 5444.6 lbs. milk, and 21.30 lbs. butter, while her dam, Hillcrest Sadie Jewel, made as a 4-year old in the record of merit, 497.9 lbs. milk and 20.87 lbs. butter in seven days.

The other bull, and sire of nine females in the lot, Colony Prince Poach Paul, with twenty-five officially tested daughters and eight proven sons, while his dam, Colony Feforit Newman, has three very fine records, one as a year-old of 18,408 lbs. milk and 808.76 lbs. butter; as a 2-year-old 17,692 lbs. milk and 787.50 lbs. butter, and in mature form 23,094 lbs. milk and 916.23 lbs. butter. The daughters of Colony Prince Poach Paul hold some enviable records, one as a 2-year-old making 21,261 lbs. milk and 766.25 lbs. butter.

It will thus be observed that in the purchase made the buyer has taken into his herd blood lines that have a long line of heavy producing ancestry, with the result that his investment is likely to be a most profitable one. All the females purchased were cows of producing age, so that they are ready to go to work for him.

THE FIRE AT LLOYDMINSTER

General sympathy will be extended to the people of Lloydminster in the disastrous fire which visited the little town. Apart from this, the fire is a warning of the extreme need of precaution against the occurrence of these visitations. At this time of year, with an unduly dry season, everything is in favor of the fire, and a little spark will spread a gigantic conflagration. The stump of an unextinguished cigarette carelessly thrown away, a match not out, will be sufficient to cause a widespread disaster with the tinder-like material to which grass, straw, trees and anything have been reduced by the intense dryness caused by the heat. Added to this, is the likelihood of the fire getting out of control with the wind acting as a powerful auxiliary in spreading it.

A great sense of individual responsibility should force itself on every person, with the lesson which the fires have been having painfully and forcefully teach. It is a call to exercise the utmost carefulness in guarding against anything which is in the least likely to start a fire the end and the extent of which no one can tell. To be otherwise will be not only reckless, but criminally careless. No matter where we are it is essential to inculcate in ourselves the necessity of extreme carefulness in using precautionary measures with anything which may be likely to cause a fire. This should become a second nature with everyone and particularly those on the prairie where there is so much combustible material in the way of frame buildings, which will easily become a prey even to a small spark, more especially with the prevailing dry heat.

This also applies to those holiday jaunts we make where timber in the forests abound. We have to grasp the great risk there is in starting a fire by an act of thoughtlessness or carelessness and more than anything in the present season where everything has become easily combustible.

HERE'S A NICE PREDICAMENT

Legislative enactments do not always work out according to expectations of their promoters. For instance, it is pointed out in the current issue of The Nation that when feminists in the United States prevailed on congress to pass a law whereby a wife's citizenship is not determined by that of her husband, they piled up a lot of worry and perplexity for their sisters in other lands. An article on the subject draws attention to the interesting fact that there are twenty countries which rule that the nationality of the wife follows that of the husband. Any woman from one of these countries, therefore, who marries a citizen of the United States, loses her citizenship in her native land, does not gain it in the United States, and becomes literally a woman without a country. But there is that about the situation in which such a woman finds herself: She can be naturalized after a year's residence in the States, —which, however, is all upset by the further complications that if the man from the States marries her abroad, she cannot get either an American, a German, a British or any other passport to go to her husband's home.

An interesting example of how this involved legislation works out in actual practice is given by the writer of the article. An official of the United States Consular Service, stationed abroad, was in 1922 married in England to a British woman, and they afterwards sought to come to the United States. The wife was discovered to be ineligible to an American passport, since under the Cable Act she had not by her marriage acquired American nationality. On the other hand, under the British act of 1914, she lost her British nationality on her marriage to a non-British subject, so she was denied a British passport. Under Section 2 of the Cable Act, she could have been naturalized after only one year's residence in the United States, if she came to that country; but she could not get a passport to come. International conference and action that will harmonize the rules of the several countries are suggested.

DECORATION DAY SERVICES

"It is a tremendous help to the bereaved to see strangers here paying honor to those who made the supreme sacrifice," commented Capt. G. G. Reynolds, Legion Chaplain in Edmonton on Sunday. "In honoring the memory of those men who responded to the call of duty, we are also honoring ourselves, in not forgetting them."

A beautiful service was held in the Last We Forget Memorial Park presided over by the Mayor, of Lacombe, Mr. G. T. Jackson. After the opening prayer by Lieut. Howland, R.A., the Rev. R. B. Layton, in an able address spoke very forcibly on "The Spirit of Britain."

Suitable hymns were sung and after the lowering of the flag to half-mast, by Const. McDonald, Miss Margaret Abbotville placed a carnation on the Cenotaph as each of the seventy-two names was called by Mr. McDonald. The vibrant notes of "The Last Post" were then sounded by Bugler C. W. Brathwaite after which the flag was raised.

The service was then closed by the band playing "God Save the King." Mr. Murphy's band played several sweet selections while wreaths and flowers were being placed on the Cenotaph. Many visitors then proceeded to the Cemetery where loving hands reverently placed flowers on the mounds of earth under which the dead lie there.

CRIME AND RELIGION

Crime is not merely a legal vice. A vice is an act against God and society, while a crime may be an offence against the state, while a vice may be an offence of which the state can take no notice.

There has undoubtedly been in recent years a decided increase in crime, and the situation is causing grave concern among thoughtful people and the leaders of civic and national life. Some metropolitan papers are making strenuous efforts to blame the churches for the criminal situation. They claim that church leaders should give a clearer guidance as to personal and civic righteousness and law enforcement. Criticizing the churches, of course, is the line of least resistance. The very same critics condemn the ministers as narrow, intolerant and bigoted who speak out boldly on the very issues they suggest.

The crime increase is a very complex problem that puzzles the people who have given years of study to its causes. There are, however, a few apparent causes which foster and feed crime. The codding of criminals by sentimental and superficial people is a factor in increasing crime, as it reduces in the minds of criminals the seriousness of their offence and weakens public sentiment regarding law enforcement. In speaking on the subject of crime, the Hon. J. G. Macdonald, Minister of Justice of the United States says the glorification of criminals is one of the prime reasons for their crime wave, as people bestow too much admiration on daring desperadoes and not enough on brave policemen.

Throwing a glamour of romance and heroism around those who dodge and break the law and too little around those who honestly endeavor to enforce it is a moral menace.

CRIME AND RELIGION
Crime is not merely a legal vice. A vice is an act against God and society, while a crime may be an offence against the state, while a vice may be an offence of which the state can take no notice.

There has undoubtedly been in recent years a decided increase in crime, and the situation is causing grave concern among thoughtful people and the leaders of civic and national life. Some metropolitan papers are making strenuous efforts to blame the churches for the criminal situation. They claim that church leaders should give a clearer guidance as to personal and civic righteousness and law enforcement. Criticizing the churches, of course, is the line of least resistance. The very same critics condemn the ministers as narrow, intolerant and bigoted who speak out boldly on the very issues they suggest.

The crime increase is a very complex problem that puzzles the people who have given years of study to its causes. There are, however, a few apparent causes which foster and feed crime. The codding of criminals by sentimental and superficial people is a factor in increasing crime, as it reduces in the minds of criminals the seriousness of their offence and weakens public sentiment regarding law enforcement. In speaking on the subject of crime, the Hon. J. G. Macdonald, Minister of Justice of the United States says the glorification of criminals is one of the prime reasons for their crime wave, as people bestow too much admiration on daring desperadoes and not enough on brave policemen.

Throwing a glamour of romance and heroism around those who dodge and break the law and too little around those who honestly endeavor to enforce it is a moral menace.

A lost respect for the guardians of the law and the police service fosters crime. England is considered the most law abiding country in the world and nowhere are the police more respected. Police should be chosen for their honor, integrity, courage, and devotion to duty. They should demand an attitude of respect and receive it at the hands of the public.

There is a danger of this country developing a weakened public conscience on moral questions, and making crime easier. There is no doubt the drink drive, the gambling craze and the lower types of movies are producers of crime, and the public conscience needs to be constantly aroused regarding crime. Roger Babson, the noted statistician, in referring to the lower class of movies, says, "Such studies as I have made lead directly to the movies as the basic cause of the crime waves of today. Furthermore, when one considers that 10,000,000 people (largely young people in the U.S. alone attend the movies every week, their tremendous influence in all ways must be admitted. In view of statements by psychologists that impressions show the age primary mark of New England, and that these which come through the ear, it is evident that the movies are the greatest force today in molding character for good or evil. In fact, I sent a questionnaire to the school principals of New England asking which of the following led the character of our young people today—the school, the church or the home—and seventy per cent scratched off all three and replied, "The movies."

We must remember that our country has a cosmopolitan population made up of different customs and conceptions of law and order, and difference ideals of liberty, and while the vast majority are most desirous of law and order, and are bringing a valuable contribution in culture and the fine arts, some undoubtedly purposely let their own country to escape the clutches of the law in European lands and to carry on their work of crime in this country, while some others use the larger freedom of a new land as a license to do as they like. It is far easier to police a homogeneous people with their traditions of family life, than a heterogeneous mass that have come from the ends of the earth. It is only fair to say our native born Canadians are contributing a real share to the crime increase.

Difficult as it is to tabulate the real causes of crime, it is equally difficult to determine a cure. There is a growing feeling that those who administer justice will have to be less lenient, and that adequate penalties are a deterrent. It is clearly proved that punishment has a great restraining influence. If man knew that justice is not juggled with, but honestly meted out without fear or favor, they will think before entering a life of crime.

There is no question that among other causes are to be found a closer study of the physical, mental and moral lives of those who come into the hands of the law, but above all, a more consistent Christian home training, together with the influence of the Church and Sunday School, are available, as they reach out for the redemption and sanctification of the individual, and as youth is brought into uplifting contacts with home and church, and then brought into vital touch with church, we shall have done much toward lessening

THE PYRAMIDS

The Pyramids of Egypt were built for the glory of ruling dynasties by telling myriads of slaves and with wealth wrung from needy tax-paying citizens. Generation after generation of desperate toil with primitive tools built these gigantic monuments, the pride of a ruling class.

The Wheat Pool farmers of Western Canada are building an infinitely more serviceable monument—a great system of elevators owned by themselves and operated for their protection and benefit. By means of an annual contribution of two cents for each bushel of wheat the Pool members of Alberta have provided over six million dollars for the construction of the elevator utilities. Bound together by the ties of co-operation, these Pool farmers are working out a plan for their own economic freedom.

The clear-sighted, far-seeing Pool member is extremely loyal to his own elevator system, realizing its value. Not only are Pool elevators operated for the Pool membership at bare cost, but they provide a strong shield to guard the welfare of the producer.

NO AGREEMENT ON REPARATIONS
An amazing transference is being witnessed at the Hague Conference on war reparations. Situations are reversed. Instead of Great Britain being the conciliator, Italy and France have been forced to assume that role against their will. Instead of British delegates offering compromises, they are demanding them from former war allies. The Young plan, evolved on the general supposition that the British people would submit to any sacrifice to further the cause of pacification in Europe, has gone beyond the limit of British patience.

Several propositions have been sponsored by France to meet British terms but all have been rejected. British and French delegates claim that the latest offer represents at least three-fourth of what Great Britain demands. In rejecting it Mr. Snowden declared this percentage was much exaggerated. The strength of the British position lies in the fact that in the event of a breakdown of the conference and the collapse of the Young plan, the Dawes scheme will continue in force. The London Times declares that Britain would be better off under the Dawes agreement.

France, Italy and Belgium have much to gain through the adoption of the Young plan. Their insistence on its acceptance is based on self-interest. This explains their eagerness to placate the British delegation. It is a new experience for them, not made any more pleasant by convincing evidence that the entire British nation is behind its representatives at the Hague.

AN APPEAL TO IGNORANCE
Figures made public by the Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa show a steady advance in the expenditures of the Canadian provinces. The average expenditure per head of population of all the Provinces was $6.71 in 1916; and in 1927 it was $16.01, which represents an increase of 140 per cent.

In this increase of expenditures a prima facie evidence of extravagance is plain to the eye. The average expenditure of the governments in all these provinces say it is. They contrast the figures and pronounce nothing more is necessary to establish the truth of their charge.

But the fact that these increases have taken place in all the provinces, under governments of every classification known to Canadian politics, makes it plain that the tendency is universal application.

One factor, of course, is the lessened purchasing value of money which accounts at once for about 40 per cent of the increase. Then there are the additional services, social and material, which the people of the provinces have demanded—all-weather roads, increased grants to education, old age and mothers' pensions, heavy outlays on social and health services.

There may be extravagance in the expenditures of the province—probably is, in some degree; and the opposition parties could do something for the public and for themselves if they were to ferret out these excessive outlays and make them known to the people. It ought to be possible, if there is extravagance, to direct an accusing finger toward the particular expenditures that come within this classification. But this is hardly ever done. Instead there is an accusation of extravagance based on a contrast between expenditures 10 or 20 years ago and now, accompanied by a bold assertion of the readiness and ability of the critic to cut these expenditures 20, 30 or 50 per cent if entrusted with power. Those who practice this method and regard it as effective campaigning pay the electorate the double compliment of regarding them as not much above the grade of men.

Aquatic Club's Canoe Meet Draws Crowd to Gull Lake

CALGARY CANOEISTS CLEAN UP IN CHAMPIONSHIP MEET

The Championship Canoe meet, held at Gull Lake on Sunday proved disastrous to the Gull Lake Aquatic Club Team, the sponsors of the event, the two Calgary teams running off with all but one Championship Event, and winning all the Novelties. However, the Aquatic Club was well pleased with the result, and the thousands of spectators all enjoyed the programme.

Attempting for the first time in Alberta a Provincial Championship Canoe meet, they have stimulated interest in the sport, and the Calgary Teams are organizing a "Club" and it is expected that Banff, Cooking Lake and Lehigh will also follow suit. Besides the organization of Canoe Clubs, the contestants have decided to form an Alberta Branch of the Canadian Amateur Canoe Association, and have written to the headquarters of the Association for membership forms. Barney Halpin of the Gull Lake Club is acting as Secretary in the matter, and states much enthusiasm is being shown.

Calgary was represented in the Canoe meet by Jack Porter, a member of the firm of Loughheed and Taylor and undefeated mixed doubles championship holder of Canada and the U.S.A. while with the Toronto Canoe Club; Alex MacKenzie, of Calgary, holder of many Eastern Championships; member of the Balm Beach Canoe Club; Harold Brown and Vant, members of the Winnipeg Canoe Club; and Miss Dorothy Hill. The Aquatic Club's representatives were: A. Sheridan, former member of the Toronto Canoe Club; Claude Halpin, Lacombe; Stanley R. Mutch, member of Lake Huron Canoe Club; Wm. Avery of Lacombe; Jean Belcher, of Lacombe and Miss Frances Fisher, of Edmonton.

The opening race, Men's Singles showed a field of five; Jack Porter winning easily. The race was a quarter mile each way, with a headwind on the return trip. Jack Porter and Alex MacKenzie won the Men's Doubles.

The Mixed Doubles were won by Jack Porter, of Calgary with Jean Belcher as co-partner.

In the Ladies Championship Singles, Miss Frances Fisher, of the Aquatic Club was easily the winner. Calgary won the Men's Fours; Jack Porter, Alex MacKenzie, Buck Billing and Harold Brown, giving as nifty a display of Canoeism as ever witnessed at Gull Lake.

Jack Porter, Miss Hill, Harold

Brown and Miss Belcher, carried off the Mixed Fours Championship. The Novelties Races were won by: Alex MacKenzie, Turtle Race; Standing Fours, Porter, Vant, MacKenzie and Brown; Lost Paddle, MacKenzie; Crab Race, MacKenzie.

All in all the meet was successful, and the organizers and members of the Gull Lake Club deserve a lot of credit for the manner in which the races were conducted. A. Sheridan, Barney Halpin, A. B. Townes, George Parks, of Lacombe, Mr. C. Sutherland and "Syd" of Edmonton, completed all arrangements. Barney Halpin, acted as announcer and registrar.

Any one interested in the formation of the Alberta Branch of the Canadian Amateur Canoe Association, should write Barney Halpin, of Lacombe.

LENIN AT HOME AND ABROAD

The appeal of China to the powers under the Kellogg treaties should bring about some offer of arbitration, but one of the weaknesses of the Kellogg treaties is that there is no one responsible for seeing them observed. China and Russia are not all likely to go to war in spite of the minority attitude adopted by Russia. Until Russia is prepared to make her bid throw for international control she will keep up the pretense of friendship and desire to keep peace. China's objection to the Russian partnership in the Eastern Railway is that the opportunity was used to spread Soviet propaganda. There is no doubt of the truth of this. It is of the very essence of the Soviet rule that all such opportunities should be used. Russia is not to be trusted on this point, and there should be no delusions to the contrary. A world revolution with all governments expiring in blood and fire is the Soviet ideal where such governments do not yield willingly to the junta that sits in Moscow and assumes the lordship of the globe. Russia has substituted one absolute autocracy for another, and the nations who put their trust in democracy must be on the alert against their chief enemy. The Tzar was armed against Germany and Turkey, and perhaps a few other nations. The Soviet is armed against mankind. Lenin contra Mundum. And even little Lenin has the ambition of sitting in the seat of his mummified father. This is why it is necessary, not to persecute the Russian Communists, but to be on guard against their perfidy. The police measure in Toronto against the defiance with which the Communists there mete the police regulations has aroused the interest of nearly every newspaper we have read since the late proceedings. Instinctively it is recognized that the fundamental principles of our liberty are at stake. A few have been misled into sympathy with the mob of anarchists, and we regret to see such a clear thinker and Senator Lewis taking this line. It seems to be forgotten that this is not a struggle of Canadians for free speech and the right of public assembly. If it were, we would insist on the right as loudly as any. But in this case we have an openly expressed determination to defeat the police and show that their regulations are unenforceable. The Communist leaders have been adroit enough to conceal their true purpose and enlist the sympathy of some, like the Senator, who stand for the principle of free speech, and some who are merely inspired by local politics and wish to lay hold of any stick to beat an unpopular dog, to wit the mayor. But the true inwardness of the situation is that here are a company of men, not Canadians in any true sense, since they desire to overthrow all Canadian institutions, and who do not move on their own initiative, but are acting under orders from Moscow, and carry on their nefarious agitation solely in treacherous loyalty to that foreign power. Such treason in Canada is well reprobated by the police or by any other constituted authority that perceives its danger. China has perceived it on her borders and within her bounds. Hence the situation in Manchuria. It is more nearly allied with that in Toronto than many are able to understand.

ANGELICIZING AMERICA
There used to be talk in England (and there still is) about the "Americanizing" influence of United States films. And there was reason for alarm. But that was in the days of the silent movie and slinky titles. Now silence and titles have gone—and John Bull is enjoying something that may be likened to sweet revenge.

The best is on the other foot, now. On this very day, millions of United States talkie fans are being bombarded with English stories in which the characters pronounce chance as chance and utter such phrases as "Oh, I say, how frightfully interesting, old bean!"

The situation is viewed with at least a semblance of alarm by that penetrating movie critic, Frederick James Smith, in a well-known weekly which we need not name, but whose proprietors are willing to bet that it will have 3,000,000 circulation by 1938. Mr. Smith writes:

What is inland America going to think of its favorite movie idols, now that they have taken taken to balancing tapestries and an English accent upon their knees? Hollywood has gone in for British drawing-room comedy in a big way and over 2,000 theatre talking machines across the United States are drawing now with broad A's.

We do not know what inland America is going to think, but Britishers must be enjoying a slightly cynical snicker just now. Imagine America being Britishized through these English speaking talkies. And pronouncing extraordinarily as if it were spelled extraw'd'n'ly. Our apes inform us that nobody without an English accent has a ghost of a chance in Hollywood now, and that Shaftesbury avenue is deserted, what with the drain of the stock of actors as a result of the demand for British mummies on the coast. The stars are talking English, too. Did you notice Lois Moran this week? And they say that Norma Shearer's accent in "The Last of Mrs. Cheney" is indistinguishable from that of Lady Cynthia Mosely. Ottawa Citizen.

Norman Campbell Store Burglarized

Between two and three o'clock Tuesday morning, Const. Tyler observed two men leaving the premises of Norman Campbell and Co. carrying a couple of heavy sacks, and on going to investigate the men took to their heels, threw down their loot and soon lost themselves among the cars and oil sheds in the C.P.R. yards. In the chase Const. Tyler fired a couple of shots at the thieves, but neither took effect and they got clear away. A search of the yards and vicinity was without results. In the sacks thrown away were goods of all kinds, shirts, ties, socks, shoes, suits and an assortment of men's furnishings, totalling over $200. It is not known how the entry to the premises was made, but in all likelihood the men have an assortment of keys to fit any door.

AGRICULTURAL LATEST HELPMATE

Agriculture is, and perhaps must always be, the world's principal industry. Yet nothing has been more persistent through the centuries than the cry of the farmer in every country that he finds it difficult to make a living. Within recent years science has come to his aid. His latest helpmate is "big business," personified by Lord Bitechett, who has entered into the field of agricultural research with all the resources provided by large capital, modern scientific practice and efficient organization. The formal entry was made on June 28, when Mr. J. H. Thomas attended the opening of the new research station at Jallit's Hill, near Maidenhead, England, where the company has inaugurated work of Empire importance. The new research station, which will keep in touch with other research stations the world over, consists of some 428 acres of land with the appropriate buildings, equipment and staff for carrying on intensive research work into the value of fertilizers in various soils, for the better cultivation of every sort of crop. It need hardly be said that the economic end of the business, the end which touches the farmer's pocket as well as the return he may expect, will be taken into consideration in a way hitherto impossible, seeing that the research station is allied to a huge industrial concern which manufactures chemical fertilizers. A staff of highly trained experts is already busy under the direction of Sir William Keeble, on such problems as

"grass growth," "fertilization," and the "best" manner of fertilizers for arable and horticultural crops. Through its subsidiary branches and local scientific research workers in every country of the Empire's clearing houses of information and ideas concerning the world's oldest and most essential industry.
